Statement of reasons:

The flat top road hump entry treatment is being proposed as a necessary safety measure under the Highways Act 1980 to reduce traffic speeds, protect pedestrians and cyclists, and manage traffic flow effectively. By implementing this measure, the highway authority seeks to fulfil its statutory duty to ensure the safety of road users, particularly in areas where pedestrian traffic is prevalent. The design and placement of the road hump has been carefully chosen to meet safety objectives while minimising disruption to the normal flow of traffic.
